A Great Book with a Tour Right in Our Own HomesBy Joan N KohrsEven though we don't live in St Paul, we are aware of Summit Avenue and truly enjoyed the book. This summer we plan to drive on Summit and see the actual houses that are pictured in the book, and the other hill areas also. It was a very neat book and really gave an insight into these homes to want a person to know more!!! It was well written and the pictures were fabulous!!! These are such beautiful homes. It is wonderful that the original woodwork, etc. was kept and preserved in these homes. Also, that the actual homes were preserved in this unique neighborhood.5 of 5 people found the following review helpful. Great coffee table book and giftBy DedicatedBeautiful pictures! The historic text is a real treat and then the reader is introduced to the how the houses live today with their current owners.0 of 0 people

By George W. Crawford
My daughter and I spent a delightful morning and partial afternoon touring these beautiful structures on Summit Avenue in St. Paul, Minnesota and some others on adjacent streets. Having done that, and now having enjoyed this book has given both of us, and my wife, a desire to tour some of the houses the next time we're in the Twin Cities.

Summit Avenue, grande dame of Victorian boulevards, is lined with magnificent turn-of-the-century mansions built by railroad magnates, lumber barons and captains of industry. Great Houses of Summit Avenue and the Hill District is a celebration of these homes on St. Paul's best-known and most beloved avenue. With a foreword by Garrison Keillor and fascinating stories penned by four award-winning writers including Paul Clifford Larson, Bette Hammel, Dave Kenney, and Melinda Nelson, the book opens the doors to more than two dozen legendary homes situated on America's best-preserved avenue from the era. Photographer Karen Melvin takes us along for a tour through stately mansions to view these remarkable architectural gems. Featuring the work of notable architects including Clarence Johnston, Cass Gilbert and Allen Stem, readers experience the interiors first-hand, including the home of F. Scott Fitzgerald. Richly illustrated with hundreds of photos, this book offers an irresistible invitation to step through the doors of these showcase homes to explain what we are all curious to know. Discover how the homeowners have restored the original grandeur and rich heritage of their homes while infusing them with new life and energy.

Karen Melvin's richly textured photographs highlight this enchanting look at some of Saint Paul's grandest homes. --
