From Grp Records : Greenhouse by Yellowjackets [1991] before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Greenhouse by Yellowjackets [1991]:

I bought it because I believe it was the first album to feature Bob Mintzer, who obviously joined the band and went on to be an indispensable element of their "sound." Arrangments are nice and tight and very melodic, "Invisible People," while being melodic and going thru several key centers, will find you humming it's melody and expanding the key centers they transit toward the end of the tune, in your head. Russ Ferrante's comping is nice, with quite a few of those "cluster-type" voicings that a lot of us are using, starting in the late 80's or so (like D-Eb-Bb and other "like-flavors"). Overall, one of their finest albums.
