Brown Wonderfully written and illustrated.

Spend the entire year with Abbie Zabar, for your garden and for your soul. From her rooftop perch, Zabar, noted gardener and author of the best-selling The Potted Herb, here shares the practical-- and universal-- truths that are at the heart of everyone's gardening experience. Her rich wisdom will inspire all readers to cultivate their lives with new-found observations and serenity. Abbie Zabar is an award-winning writer, artist, designer, and gardener, who lives in Manhattan. Her work is part of the permanent collection of the Hunt Institute for Botanical Documentation, one of the foremost resources of botanical art in the world.

From Publishers Weekly A perfect gift for the gardener, this book covers its subject with an intensely personal flavor and is exquisitely illustrated. Despite the fact that Zabar gardens on the 21st floor of a New York City apartment building, she has a down-to-earth approach. Author of The Potted Herb, she takes us through the seasons?planning, planting, pruning, harvesting. She observes bird life in her rooftop garden in a "diary of a nest," discusses roots and pots and assembling a garden library. Even winter on Zabar's rooftop has its charms. The combination of instructions, quotations, illustrations and design makes this a stunning book. Copyright 1996 Reed Business Information, Inc.
