

Heirlooms to Live In: Homes in a New Regional Vernacular

From Brand: Loft

*DOC | *audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF | ePub*

Download

Read Online

#820874 in Books Loft 2011-01-01 2010-07-01 Format: Unabridged Original language: English PDF # 1 9.25 x 2.31 x 11.22l, 6.92 #File Name: 8499361897536 pages | File size: 27.Mb

From Brand: Loft : Heirlooms to Live In: Homes in a New Regional Vernacular before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Heirlooms to Live In: Homes in a New Regional Vernacular:

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. GorgeousBy FrankIntimate views of spectacular home designs on Martha's Vineyard. Presented in a clamshell case, this would be an heirloom gift for the Holidays.2 of 4 people found the following review helpful. Well Done - Deeply Rooted in the RegionBy Robert MurphyWell done Mark Hutker! Your work represents a deep relationship to the region and the book does an amazing job at depicting the varied approaches you have taken over the years. Your work is truly inspirational for someone who appreciates the value of place over the draw of globalism and the homes represented here truly show your innovation and attention to the lives of your clients. The packaging of the book is by far the best architectural monograph I have ever purchased.If you are interested in an architecture of meaning in tradition and place along with an appreciation for lifestyle focused design you should purchase and appreciate this volume. Mark Hutker is a light in an increasingly dark world.

Hardcover in clamshell box:A specific region's environmental needs often lead to a regional vernacular architecture that embraces a common style. Yet, Hutker Architects, Inc., has designed over two hundred homes in coastal New England that avoid a single style. The twenty-five diverse residential projects in this book illustrate a process not a preordained style The common thread running through the Hutker projects is the use of the life equity principle: a home should generate social and emotional equity over time. The conversation between the architect and each client reveals the way to design and build this home once well to ensure positive and enduring social and emotional outcomes. A home with life equity provides for the owner's long term needs, both physical and psychological, uses materials best suited to the spaces needed, and accommodates ever-changing family arrangements. Hutker homes fit clients so well, that they are rarely sold outside the families that build them. Whether small or large, owners treat these homes as heirlooms to be preserved and handed down to the next generation.

From the Inside Flap A specific region's environmental needs often leads to a regional vernacular architecture that embodies a common style. Yet, Hutker Architects, Inc., has designed over two hundred homes in coastal New England that avoid a single style. The twenty-five diverse residential projects in this book illustrate a process not a preordained style. The common thread through the Hutker projects is use of the life equity principle: a home should generate social and emotional equity over time.