5 of 5 people found the following review helpful. A rich travel guideBy Peggy GammaPacked with information and fine photos. We will use the map to plan a 'history trip' from Maine to Georgia. The book covers the familiar houses of Washington, Adams, and Jefferson as well as many unknown to us, Paca, Iredell, William Jay - architect. The Visitor Information section provides the specifics of viewing the properties which are all open to the public. You will perhaps read it from front to back and then get in your car to see for yourself how the many founding fathers lived.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. This book is so informative concerning men that we know to little about.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy CustomerFull of information and small tid bits about the founding fathers and their families and homes.

A riveting look at the private worlds of Hamilton, Washington, Jefferson, Adams, and more The hit Broadway show Hamilton has shined a spotlight on our Founding Fathers and the fascinating private lives of these men who helped create the modern world. In this breathtaking volume, historian Hugh Howard and photographer Roger Straus take us on an eye-opening tour of forty of the Founding Fathers stately homes. We see the uptown New York residence where Alexander Hamilton penned his Statement of the Impending Duel before his fateful meeting with Aaron Burr; Thomas Jefferson's iconic Monticello; the mansions of Washington, Adams, and Franklin; and the homes of many other signers of the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. At sites from Maine to Georgia, with stops in each of the thirteen colonies, the grand story of the Revolution emerges from unique and individual domestic perspectives. Houses overlooking the sea, in busy townscapes, or atop mountains reveal these patriots' tastes in architecture, furniture, and horticulture. There are tales of friends and enemies, murderous relatives, reluctant revolutionaries, adoring wives, and runaway servants. The founding families are brought to life in the rituals of birth and death, the food they ate, the archaic medical practices they endured, their household arrangements, and the way their slaves lived.

"The 40 houses and 48 people profiled in this lushly illustrated coffee-table book provide a sense of place for the American Revolution. Hugh Howard's text peoples the bare rooms in the reader's mind, and Straus' photographs give the armchair traveler a good sense of what tourists experience, if not a complete historical accounting." San Francisco Chronicle
