Own a piece of history. The final countdown on How-to-Grow World Class Giant Pumpkins has begun. Published in 1993 and reprinted in 1997 and 2003, this title will be going out of print. Annedawn Publishing will no longer be reprinting WCGP_I, and after these final 120 books are sold, there will be no more of this title to sell here. Each of these Limited Edition books will be signed by Don Langevin and numbered as part of this final encore of How-to-Grow World Class Giant Pumpkins. Own a piece of the history of giant pumpkin growing. Many people consider this book the start of an enormous popularity increase in growing and competing with giant pumpkins. Many credit it with enabling average backyard gardeners to compete with the world's elite giant pumpkin growers, and spearheaded an assault on the world records that seems unbridled. When this book was published, Joel Holland held the world record with an 827-pound pumpkin. Today, that record has been doubled and stands at an aweing 1689 pounds. Ask Joe Jutras, the current world record holder, if he's read WCGP_I -- for that matter, ask any of the world record holders over the last fourteen years. Buy your copy today. When they're gone, you'll wish you had. WCGP I, 250 color images, 118 pages
