Encourages you to think of the home landscape like the interior of your house and empowers you to think outside the box. Must read for anyone who is planning to landscape their house.

Landscape design for the (above) average homeownerFor any homeowner who enjoys decorating the inside of the home, this book teaches outdoor landscaping using the same principles of open sight lines, flow, color, space, light, imagination, and a bit of whimsy. Illustrated throughout in full color, Inside Out features lush photos, landscape design schematics, line drawings, and paintings to fully explore how to create outdoor beauty and harmony around your home. Jeff Hutton writes in a warm, intelligent, personable style, as if he is walking the property with a client, giving his professional advice. The resulting landscape ideas are all within the ability of any homeowner to dream and then create on the ground. Including: Foundation beds Walkways and paths Decks, porches, and patios Perennials and ornamental grasses Stone walls Lawns Retaining walls and terraces Swimming pools Shade trees Privacy screening Landscaping for winter beauty Landscaping for kids Garden art and much more!
